

Type of License	Number that can be held by an individual	Number Associated with a Real Estate Company	Can They Transfer?
Broker	Unlimited*	One	No
Principal Associate Broker	Unlimited	Unlimited	No
Salesperson	One	Unlimited	Yes
Non-Principal Associate Broker	One	Unlimited	Yes

- Only a standard Broker's License can be issued to a non-living entity.
- Every Active Officer (active in real estate) of a real estate corporation must obtain an Associate Brokers License.
- A Principal Associate Broker has an ownership interest or a position of authority in a real estate company.
- Think of a Non-Principal Associate Broker as a Deluxe Salesperson.

* A broker has the authority to establish a legal real estate entity and obtain a Broker's license in that entities name. There are no limitations on the number of Broker entities that may be applied for.